Apple Car Reports Fuel Speculation of Deal with Kia, Other Auto Cos

Speculation that Apple is seeking a partner to develop its own electric vehicle swept through South Korea and Japan, where shares of major car companies climbed on reports of discussions with the maker of the iPhone.

Kia Motors is talking to potential partners about a plan to assemble an Apple-designed car, the Wall Street Journal reported on Friday. Separately, the Nikkei newspaper said Apple was in discussions with at least six automakers. Conjecture around Apple's secretive project to design and sell its own car re-emerged in De-cember after a hiatus of several years, with Kia's part-owner Hyundai Motor mentioned as a potential partner.

The key question is how serious Apple is about taking on Tesla and other electric-vehicle makers, and whether it has determined it will need an established manufacturer to be able to roll out its own product. The company is said to have a small team of engineers developing drive systems, as well as designers, but with development work at an early stage, any roll out probably won't happen for another five years.

Tatsuo Yoshida, a senior analyst at Bloomberg Intelligence, said that Japanese automakers are usually too busy with their own development, manufacturing, sales and customer service to take on a task like working with Apple. However, Nissan Motor or Mitsubishi Motors "don't have much work, and are somewhat idle, so

Motor said they couldn't comment, the Nikkei said. Mitsubishi Motors said it was not contacted and Nissan declined to comment, according to the report. Subaru's chief financial officer said on an earnings call that he hadn't heard anything about an Apple car.

The Journal reported a deal between Apple and Kia will involve a multibillion-dollar investment. with assembly to take place in the state of Georgia.

This week, CNBC reported that Apple is close to finalising a deal with Hyundai-Kia to build an autonomous EV at Kia's US plant. No agreement has been reached, but they are tentatively scheduled to go into production in 2024. the news channel said. Bloomberg

J&J Files for US Covid-19 Vaccine Authorisation

If granted nod, vaccine will be third in the US after Pfizer and Moderna

Washington: Pharmaceuticals giant Johnson & Johnson on Thursday submitted an application for emergency authorisation of its Covid-19 vaccine with US health authorities, the company said in a statement. The process could take several weeks, but at the end of it the vaccine would be the third authorised in the US, after those of Pfizer-Bio-NTech and Moderna. J&J subsidiary Janssen Biotech "has submitted an application to USFDA requesting Emergency Use Authorisation (EUA) for its investigational single-dose Janssen Covid-19 vaccine candidate", the statement read. The new vaccine is highly anticipated because it has two big logistical advantages: it can be stored at refrigerator temperatures rather than in special freezers, significantly easing distribution; and it requires just one dose.

Following J&J's request, the FDA is expected to convene its advisory committee on vaccines, which will deliver its opinion after studying the data from clinical trials.

It will be responsible for determining whether the benefits of the vaccine outweigh the risks. That step took about three weeks for the Pfizer-BioNTech and Mo-

It said the project would provide up to 5,600 jobs and help achieve a goal to boost the country's wind power capacity to 16.5 GW by 2030 from 1.67 GW now.
