10 TAKE TWO

Jio makes a competitive call

With subscriber additions slowing, the pricecompetitive player is looking beyond its mobile operations to monetising its digital platforms. But that's where the competition is acute

SURAIFFT DAS GUPTA New Delhi, 27 January

he great Reliance Jio juggernaut seems to be losing steam. For a company that has publicly targeted a 500 million mobile subscriber base, its results last week disappointed analysts and the market, with the share nosediving since. Net mobile subscriber additions (new subscribers minus those who left the network) in the third quarter of FY 21 grew a mere 5.2 million, slowing considerably from 6.9 million in Q2, when rival Bharti Airtel took the top slot for the first time since Jio's launch. And it is far behind its dream run in the previous four quarters (see chart).

RIL's management blamed this slowdown on the disruption caused by the movement of migrant workers due to the Covid-19 pandemic and the farmers agitation, with protestors targeting its food retail and related businesses. It also pointed out that average revenue per user (ARPU) has sharply risen by 4 per cent and revenues by over 5.8 per cent sequentially

But Bharti has been able to buck many of the same challenges — its net additions in the second quarter of FY21 went up by 14 million. Jio's problem is that Given RIL's deceleration in net subscriber growth is additions for the last two quardependent on ters Morgan Stanley has readcompetitive tariffs – justed ARPU and EBIDTA it offers a 15 to 20 (earnings before interest, per cent discount depreciation, tax and amortiover its rivals. sation) for FY23 downwards by Any tariff hike can. 5 and 11 per cent respectively, therefore, stifle net principally to reflect the subscriber growth restricted scope for a tariff increase.

This outlook partly reflects the fact across the country (and could bring in that the economic slowdown will slow additional ARPUs of ₹500-700 a month subscriber additions for several quarters. But the market was expecting a tariff increase by Jio and other telecom pipeline of offerings - smart speaker lincompanies (telcos) to maintain EBITDA ear TVs, and Internet of Things. telecom, for small and medium scale enterprises.

It is planning a killer bundled offering, as it did with the launch of the feature phone, to woo the remaining 400 million 2G customers waiting to move to 4G.

And finally, it said it would push aggressively to sell its new post-paid offerings (which was not a priority before) bundled with Over the Top (OTT) platforms to grab some share of this market where Bharti and Vodafone India Ltd (VIL) are entrenched with ARPUs double that of pre-paid services.

But it is precisely in these growth plans that it faces tough competition from Bharti. In FTTH, for instance, RIL plans to reach 15-20 million homes. Just a few months ago, it reworked its tariff plans, bundling them with free OTT platforms. In its investor presentation it said the business is scaling up robustly but gave no numbers (Jio had about 1.7 million customers in October and around 2 million in December).

Bharti Airtel, a slow and steady player in this space for years, has stepped on the accelerator. It plans to roll out FTTH from 100-plus to over 1,000 cities in 12-18 months (tying up with local cable operators for last mile) and wants to reach 40 million households. And it is in a head-to-head battle with Jio in terms of pricing and bundled offerings. In October, Airtel had acquired 2.7 million subscribers.

In the enterprise business, Airtel and the Tata group are well ahead, controlling over 75 per cent of the $3.6 billion of the enterprise communication business that comes to telcos. But the battle lines are being drawn, with Airtel signing a multivear deal with Amazon AWS and Jio with Microsoft. Jio is targeting the unserved small and medium business market of 11 million customers, and Bharti the highend corporate market. But experts say it is a matter of time before the two jostle for each other's markets.

The next big trigger for growth has to come from monetising its digital platform. For instance, just like Google and Facebook, it can leverage its 400-million plus customers to generate advertising revenues. Bofa Global Research estimates it should be able to garner around 6 per cent of digital revenues by 2022, going up to 8 per cent in a few years.

Its media and entertainment offerings (Jio TV with 100 million-plus subscribers and Jio Cinema with 50 millionplus) are available free to mobile customers — unlike competitors such as Netflix, Hotstar-Disney, Amazon and Zee, which are pushing for a combination of subscription and advertising for their premium offerings. The super app, MyJio, has over 300 million downloads offering an attractive opportunity for advertising and monetising.

RIL has also invested around $2 billion for stakes in over 35 apps apart from building its own, offering the opportunity to generate revenues. In education, RIL has Embibe, but it is way behind the big boys in the game such as Byju's (valued at $11.1 billion) or Unacademy ($2 billion). In healthcare, it has JioHealthHub.

Of course all this does not mean it will stop grabbing a larger share of the subscriber pie, especially with Vodafone Idea losing customers fast.

The magic answer lies in its plan to bundle its low-cost 4G smartphones with Google to woo 2G customers (under ₹5,000) and upgrade those who want something more than a feature phone. The question is how quickly Jio can get

NEWSMAKER / DEEP SIDHU / ACTOR, FARMER PROTEST LEADER

Acting head

f you don't watch movies in Punjabi, you can be forgiven for not knowing who Deep Sidhu is. Actually, you might not have heard of him even if you do watch Punjabi movies. As a film actor, Sidhu is not yet a household name, though he is working hard to get there. He is the individual who planted the "Nishan Sahib" or the Sikh religious flag atop the Red Fort on January 26. In his Facebook post, Sidhu claimed credit for climbing on top of the 350-year old monument to fly the flag, clarifying that the national flag was neither insulted nor taken down. "To symbolically register our protest against the new farm legislation, we put up Nishan Sahib and a farmer flag and also raised the slogan of Kisan Mazdoor Ekta," he said.

With this one act, Sidhu may have become the face of the Punjab farmerprotestors as the movement descended into chaos with attempts to take out a parallel tractor parade on Republic Day. The move might do Sidhu's wobbly career trajectory as an actor some good, though most participating farmers are not quite sure exactly who he is

If you're from Punjab — whether you're a bureaucrat, politician, soldier, entrepreneur or actor - you need to have a view on the farmers' protest against the three central laws. It is hard to sit on the fence — as actor and former BJP Lok Sabha MP from Bikaner, Dharmendra, discovered after posting tweets beseeching the central government to review the laws — which he deleted in double-quick time.

His son Sunny, who represents the Gurdaspur Lok Sabha seat on behalf of the BJP, is yet to indicate his views on the protest movement. Sidhu may have developed political ambitions after Sunny Deol's victory in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections: he was part of the group that worked for Deol. Deol has since dissociated himself from Sidhu.

Sidhu was the winner of the Kingfisher

Model Hunt that began his career in glamour. He walked the ramp for designers such as Hemant Trivedi and Rohit Gandhi. After this, he studied law and worked with several firms such as Sahara India Pariwar and Balaji Telefilms. He also opened his own law firm, Lex Legal, which handled clients Sidhu was the such as Vijayta Films, Red winner of the Chillies, PVR Pictures, Colours Kingfisher Model Hunt that began and Sony Pictures.

But his real passion was his career in acting and his debut film was glamour, Later, Ramta Jogi (2015), produced he studied law by Dharmendra. A moderateand opened his ly successful Punjabi movie, own law firm Jora 10 Numbaria, followed.

grows up to become the dreaded gangster, Jora (Sidhu).

Dharmendra also starred in the movie, which was released in 2017 and is an adaptation of Gangs of Wasseypur. The villains in the movie are both politicians and corrupt police officers. The highlight dialogue is Dharmendra (Jagga), telling Jora, "Gunde te guerelle wich bada fark honda hai" (there a big difference between a gangster and a guerilla).

That movie was successful enough to merit some discussion about a sequel, which is reportedly in the works. But not much has been heard of Sidhu after that in the Punjabi movie world. Or in the universe of politics.

Till January 26.

The Punjab film industry is not like the Tamil or Telugu film industry where actors are politicians and politicians are actors. Shailesh Kapoor, media analyst and CEO and founder of Ormax Media, a production house, says the national studios, Indian and foreign, like Disney, Fox or even Yash Raj films have so far not invested in Punjabi movies that have developed through home-grown labels, financed and produced sometimes by actors themselves or by small local financiers. Punjabi films reported a box office collection of around ₹250 crore in 2019, about 2 per cent of the overall India box office collections. That said, he says, the Punjabi film industry is growing at a steady 10 to 15 per cent annually. Kapoor says what works for Punjabi movies is music: music stars are usually film stars as well.

But that is not to say films with politics as the theme have not been a success. In 2014, Punjab:1984, the tale of a mother's search for her son during the insurgency, did phenomenally well. A box office hit was the 2014 release Chaar Sahebzaade, produced by Eros International and Baweja Films, which is thought to have grossed ₹70 crore. A Deloitte report from 2017 says the growth in Punjabi films is not

This chronicles the journey of a boy who only because of Over The Top and digital delivery. Punjab is one of the states where multiplexes are increasing: the number of multiplexes in Punjab has grown from four in 2007 to 36 in 2016 with 99 multiplexes under construction.

With all this, clearly, Sidhu sees a future for himself in politics as well as cinema. While farmers and politicians might be wagging their finger at him now, his face is the one recognisable image from the farmer protest. Whoever said publicity doesn't do you any good?

SANJEEB MUKHERJEE New Delhi, 27 January

Though the employment situation has improved since the lockdown was lifted, it has not returned to the pre-Covid levels yet, shows the second round of survey conducted by the Azim Premji University in collaboration with six civil society organisations to judge the impact of the pandemic on people's livelihood.

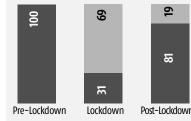

Though over two-thirds (69 per cent) of those employed in February 2020 had lost their jobs during the lockdown enforced in April and May, the situation hasn't returned to normal even six months after it was lifted (September-November), the initial findings of the survey released today showed.

Nearly 20 per cent of the people were out of work when the survey was conducted (October to December 2020), which means they did not find even one day of work in the month preceding the survey.

The first round of survey (April and May 2020) covered nearly 5,000 respondents (mostly from informal and vulnerable households).

In the second round (October, November and December), around 2,778 respondents from the first survey were re-interviewed, across 12 states, to understand the nature of economic recovery. The study covered self-employed, casual and regular wage and salaried workers. It also showed women

The study found that though that workers fared nine out of 10 households had worse than men when it came to reported cutting employment wn on their recovery (53 per food consumption cent versus 57 during the lockdown, six per cent) and urban areas were months later only much worse hit a third reported despite quicker that consumption bounce-back. was back at pre-The survey ockdown levels also found that for those workers employed post-lockdown, earnings have recovered to pre-lockdown levels, but since a large fraction of workers was still out of work six months later, on the whole earnings are half of what they were before the lockdown.

The study found that though nine out of 10 households had reported cutting down on their food consumption during the lockdown, six months later only a third reported that consumption was back at pre-lockdown levels.

"Urban households are worse off with 28 per cent reporting that food consumption was still at lockdown levels as against 15 per cent of rural households," the survey found.

It said that the preliminary findings showed that a continued expanded allocation for MGNREGA, as well as the introduction of an urban employment scheme in the upcoming Budget are crucial for addressing this livelihood crisis.

Further, given the weakness in food and earnings recovery, there is an urgent need to expand the scope of the current PDS provisioning alongside an adequate security net for those who have suffered the most during this crisis, it said.
